HABS No. PA-5714

Location: 59 Lehigh Street, Westmont, Johnstown, Cambria County, Pa.

Description: Free-standing, very tall and narrow, two-story, two-bay, single-family dwelling with a front gable roof. The wood-framed building measures 41' x 16' with a shed-roofed ell addition. First and second story covered with asphalt siding. The shed-roofed front porch is supported by wood box columns connected by a short balustrade. Front room addition at the basement level is covered in wood shingles. Original stone foundation.

History: Built ca. 1889-91 by the Cambria Iron Company as one of the ten six-room tenements for $955.62. An outline of the house is shown on an 1892 map of Westmont. The 1900 U.S. Census lists John Boyle, the occupant, as a day laborer who was born in Pennsylvania in 1870. Both of his parents were Irish. He is also listed in the 1900 tax assessment record as a laborer. Laborers and mill hands rented these houses. Tenants were charged $8 a month for rent by 1911.

R. S. Jordan acquired the house from Cambria Iron Company on April 1, 1921, for $2000. According to the 1918 city directory, Robert S. Jordan was a laborer living with his wife, Cecelia; William H. Jordan, a molder; and Thomas J. Jordan.

This report was prepared by Cheryl Powell in August 1988 under the direction of Alison K. Hoagland, HABS historian, and Kim E. Wallace, the supervisory historian of the project. Powell's and other project historians' work was published as The Character of a Steel Mill City: Four Historic Neighborhoods of Johnstown, Pennsylvania (Washington, D.C.: HABS/HAER, National Park Service, 1989), edited by Kim E. Wallace. Illustrations in the publication include large format photographs taken by HAER photographer Jet Lowe and 35 mm photographs taken by the project historians.
